| Other | James Willstrop, England's most successful junior player of all time, became the world's top-ranked Englishman just two years after becoming a 'senior'. In December 2005, after reaching a career-high world No2, he led England to victory - for the first time in eight years - in the World Team Championships in Pakistan. After a disappointing 2006 - in which he was hospitalised with food poisoning in Cairo on the eve of the World Open in Egypt - the 23-year-old Yorkshireman struck back with a vengeance this year, first winning the British National Championship for the first time, then claiming his first PSA Tour title for more than 16 months at the Canary Wharf Classic in London. It was not only a confidence-boosting Tour triumph, but one he achieved after finally ending a career-long tally of 12 defeats by Lee Beachill, beating his Pontefract and England team-mate - and close friend - in a five-game quarter-final. But Willstrop's new-found form gathered pace after signing a new racquet contract with Prince in August: In the inaugural English Grand Prix in Birmingham, coincidentally sponsored by the brand, fourth seed Willstrop forced himself into the final after overcoming favourite David Palmer in a 95-minute five-game semi-final - then clinched the trophy when he beat third-seeded Frenchman Thierry Lincou 11-8, 11-8, 9-11, 7-11, 11-3 in 77 minutes to claim his seventh PSA Tour title. Palmer avenged the defeat in the quarter-finals of the British Open shortly afterwards - but James went on to score his best ever success in the US Open in October. He made his breakthrough in the quarter-finals in New York, beating the recently-crowned British Open champion Gregory Gaultier - a repeat of his first ever win over the Frenchman in August's Super Series Finals - before going on to down Karim Darwish in 98 minutes to make his 11th Tour final. Clearly feeling the effects of his marathon semi-final encounter, Willstrop went down in straight games to England team-mate Nick Matthew. Willstrop, coached throughout his life by his illustrious father Malcolm Willstrop, enjoyed a glittering junior career - winning British National titles at all age groups U12, U14, U17 and U19, and British Junior Open trophies at U14, U17 and U19. In his final year in the category, he won both the European Junior and World Junior Championships. It was in his final junior year - 2002 - that he won his first PSA Tour title, the Swiss Open, in March, followed by the Santa Barbara Open in October. The following year, he became one of the youngest players ever to play for the senior England team, representing his country for the first time at both the European and World Team Championships. He made a major breakthrough on the senior stage at the end of 2004 - winning the Pakistan Open in Islamabad (upsetting Amr Shabana in the quarter-finals) in his first appearance in a Super Series final. In 2005, he reached the final of the British Open for the first time, as the seventh seed, then followed this by outplaying a top-quality international field in Doha to lift the Qatar Classic trophy in only his second Super Series final appearance! In the Commonwealth Games in Melbourne in March 2006, Willstrop partnered Vicky Botwright to a silver medal in the Mixed Doubles. Updated October 2007 |

| Other | Despite first achieving a world top five ranking in October 2004, it was in 2006 that Nick Matthew made an indelible mark on squash history when the Englishman, seeded six, upset third-seeded Frenchman Thierry Lincou in the final of the British Open in Nottingham to become the first home-grown champion of the world's most prestigious event for 67 years! Lincou twice levelled the match after the local hero forged game leads - but Matthew bravely stuck to his task and fought back from behind in the decider to claim a sensational 11-8, 5-11, 11-4, 9-11, 11-6 victory after 82 minutes. "This has to be the pinnacle of my achievements," said the Yorkshireman who had become the first true English champion since Jim Dear won the title in 1939. The triumph rounded off a sensational year for the 27-year-old from Sheffield, which began when he won the British National title for the first time - later becoming the only person to hold the National and Open titles simultaneously. It also included a final berth in the Tournament of Champions at Grand Central Station in New York, where he made his breakthrough in the quarter-finals after upsetting No2 seed and former champion Jonathon Power – in what transpired to be the colourful Canadian's farewell PSA Tour match when he then announced his retirement! Matthew's 2007 campaign started disappointingly when he suffered a serious ankle injury in his first match of the year at the Canadian Classic in Toronto. Intense treatment for the torn ligament in his right ankle enabled him to make a comeback at the KL Open in Malaysia - where he reached the semi-finals. Later, in the Canary Wharf Classic in London, Matthew made it through to the semi-finals before losing to England team-mate James Willstrop - who went on to win the title. He was a surprise semi-finalist too in April's Qatar Classic, where he again went down to the ultimate champion when he lost in a five-game marathon to Egypt's rising star Ramy Ashour. The disappointment of failing to retain his British Open title in September - when he lost out to world number one Amr Shabana in the quarter-finals - was tempered by his achievement in New York City two weeks later when he won his maiden Super Series crown. Seeded six in the US Open, Matthew made his breakthrough in the quarter-finals when he upset Thierry Lincou in five games. In the semis, he avenged his Qatar Classic defeat by beating the event's second seed Ramy Ashour in four games, before celebrating his historic triumph in a straight games win over compatriot James Willstrop. Matthew enjoyed a promising junior career – in which he represented England in both the European and World Team Championships and was runner-up in the 1998 European Junior Open and winner of the 1999 British Junior Open. Updated October 2007 |

| Other | The Australian-born Scot, widely-known as the hardest-hitter of the ball, has enjoyed a highly successful career on the international circuit. Runner-up in the British Open and World Open in 2002, John White went on to top the world rankings in March 2004. Since relocating in the USA in March 2005, he has reached eight PSA Tour finals in his new adopted home country - winning four of them! His 2007 campaign included a return to the British National Championship final for the second time. White boasts 12 PSA Tour titles and his courageous appearance in the climax of the Canary Wharf Classic in London in March marked his 30th Tour final. White went full-time in 1991, but not until April 98 did he break into the top twenty, before enjoying a great run at the top of the game in the new millennium which led to him topping the world rankings at the beginning of March 2004. "Becoming number one in the world is one of the major goals of anyone's career, so I am delighted to have achieved this," said White at the time. Born and raised in Queensland, Australia, where his parents owned a squash club, he moved to Belgium in the late nineties and, after a spell in The Hague in the Netherlands, moved to Nottingham in England in 2000. In September 98, he changed his allegiance to Scotland (his father was born in Edinburgh) and, after winning the Scottish Nationals in December, represented his new country the following year in the European Championships, the World Cup and the World Team Championships. After living in Nottingham for five years, where he trained at the University Sports Centre under its Director Vaughan Williams, White moved in March 2005 to the USA, where he and his wife and four young children established a new base in Philadelphia. White confirmed his credentials as the game's hardest-hitter in 2005 when a ball struck by his racket was clocked at 172 mph - a world record which has yet to be surpassed! (The attempt was made following revelations that Andy Roddick had established a record of 150mph in tennis!). Four PSA Tour title wins in 2006 - the Dayton Open, Virginia Pro Championship, Motor City Open and Baltimore City Open - saw White return to the world top ten at eight in the New Year. Seeded four, he made it into the final of the Dayton Open in January 2007 - then in March established a personal record when he reached the final of the Canary Wharf Classic in London after enduring four successive five-game battles in the tournament. He courageously took a 2/1 lead over James Willstrop in the climax, but ultimately went down in five in an exhilarating match which earned the pair a prolonged standing ovation from the sell-out crowd. In May, White clocked up his 31st PSA Tour final - and the eighth on his new 'home soil' since moving to the USA in 2005 - when he reached the climax of the North American Open in San Francisco. Updated October 2007 |
